R. P. CHURCH SEEKS ADMISSION TO THE PRESBYTERIAN BODY

Congregation Votes Almost Unanimously for Union Monday

One of the most important events in local church circles in many years was recorded Monday evening when the Reformed Presbyterian (General Synod), voted to seek admission in the Presbyterian church in this Dayton Presbytery. Those favoring the move say the vote was almost unanimous out of a membership of about 225.

For a year or more this question has been uppermost in the minds of the leaders in the local congregation. The fact that there was no other congregation in Ohio in the denomination and but only about ten or twelve in the country, influenced the local members to seek Presbyterian relationship in the steps just taken.

The action of the congregation was placed before Ohio Presbytery Wednesday afternoon for approval. The next step will be for the local congregation to petition Dayton Presbytery for admittance with its membership and church property.

Rev. W. P. Harriman, pastor of the present congregation, will remain and continue his duties should Dayton Presbytery accept the petition. No adverse action is anticipated.

The Reformed Presbyterian General Synod is now in session here and favorable action is anticipated from that body. It is said that the local congregation is the largest in point of membership of any of the remaining in the denomination.

Cedarville College was founded by the Reformed Presbyterian denomination but some years ago the charter was changed and the board of trustees is a self-perpetuating body with members of different religious denominations.

It is expected that the college will be transferred to the Presbyterian denomination and its influence here. Many students of the Presbyterian faith are now attending the institution and it is predicted that many more will attend by the new change.

The Reformed Presbyterian Seminary is under the control of General Synod and has been connected with Cedarville College.

There is an interesting history connected with the founding of the local congregation. Many of our oldest families were immigrants from South Carolina and Kentucky, leaving those states owing to disagreement on views regarding human slavery. In some instances ministers of the same faith in the South were slave holders and this resulted in many leaving the south and settling here.

The Reformed Presbyterian congregation celebrated its one hundredth anniversary in 1909. At that time a Centennial Souvenir was issued which recorded the important historical events of that period so far as they related to the congregation. The early history was from the pen of the late Robert Charlton Reid, father of the Honorable Whitlaw Reid. Mr. Reid was for forty years a ruling elder and clerk of the session. The historical data from that time on was written by Prof. F. A. Junkat. It is from this that we have written the condensed history of the congregation, which will be of public interest.

The history of the Reformed Presbyterian congregation dates back to 1804 when David Mitchell and wife emigrated from Kentucky and settled on Clark's Run. About the same time James Miller and wife, from Scotland, settled near the Mitchells, and these two families formed the first prayer meeting of the future congregation, and were for some years the only members. Both Miller and Mitchell had been clothed with the office of ruling elder. The next family to join this organization, was that of Robert C. Reid's father, James Reid, who located in the same section in the spring of 1808. They had been members of the Associated Reformed church in Lexington, Ky., but left owing to the question of slavery. The next family to join this union was that of William Moreland. In the fall of 1909, Rev. Thomas Donnelly and Mr. John Kell, then a licentiate, passed through the neighborhood and preached—Mr. Kell in the morning and Rev. Donnelly in the afternoon. This was the first preaching that the embryo congregation had, and the first Reformed Presbyterian preaching in the county, and probably in the state.

The first meeting of the church was held on the Miller farm and the sacrament of baptism was administered to William and Joseph Reid, sons of James Reid, who had been born after their parents had left the Association.

Without further delay, the church was organized. Wanted: Boy to pass papers. James C. McMillan

HAGAR STRAW BOARD & PAPER COMPANY TO OIL PONDS

We notice by the May issue of "The Hagar Seventy Five," the house organ for the company employees that the management of The Hagar Straw Board & Paper Company will place oil this year on the company reservoirs west of town. The co-operation of County Health Officer R. H. Grube has been solicited and this official will supervise the work.

The reservoirs were empty until a few days ago when the first water was turned in. There has been no opportunity for mosquito hatching because the water is cold and has not been in the pond long enough. Just as soon as the water warms the oil will be applied to prevent hatching.

Complaint was made last summer that mosquitoes were swarming from the ponds into town and making life unbearable for miles around. The company has taken precaution early this year so that no such charge can be made.

This pest seems to have become general in certain sections of the country during the summer months. The usual thing is that towns and resorts affected last summer were not within a hundred miles of a paper mill. We stopped in one Michigan town last summer that had about a dozen paper mills and mosquitoes were very unusual in that section. At least there were none last August.

Now that the company has arranged for oiling the ponds it certainly is up to property owners and the village to see that certain conditions about town are cleaned up and all try and co-operate in this movement and make a test this year from a prevention standpoint.

Should the company go to a great expense in oiling the ponds and then the community be infested as in the past, it must be concluded that the ponds were not breeding any more mosquitoes than what naturally are hatched by conditions permitted about town and along the creek.

The village owes the Hagar Company co-operation along the line suggested. The public wants results. It is now up to the public to see that some effort is made to clean-up and lend a hand in this movement.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor of the Cedarville Herald:

I drove into this fair town Tuesday noon, coming back to visit my Alma Mater, and to attend the meeting of the General Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church.

As I approached Main Street on Xenia Ave., I noted a partly obliterated sign, "STOP." The wet street had caused dirt from Xenia Ave. to almost obliterate the sign. I depressed clutch and brake and came almost to a dead stop, carefully observed Main Street and saw that there was no vehicle in sight. I slowly drove on. For this careful action I was arrested and fined $5.00.

May I say, this is unjust to Cedarville's good name. You cannot afford to have the name of this fair town carry with it the stench of such unfairness and injustice. I know of no where else where a fine is in order for the first offense of this nature.

I have driven a car for 10 years, never had an accident, never was before arrested. I enter my protest to your treatment of the motoring public, and especially to your treatment of returned sons and daughters.

And all of this in the interest of justice to your good name and to all travelers.

Yours truly,
Rev. D. Harold Hammond
402 Fifth St., Beaver, Pa.

"Cooler and probably stormy," seems to be the forecast for England these days.

The present situation in England shows the danger of government control of industry except as a war time measure. The government is an institution erected and maintained by the people, for the benefit of the people as a whole. When the government of any country leaves this position, except under special stress, and attempts to control industry to fix prices, regulate wages, or in any way participate in what is rightly of private concern, then an industrial revolution is to be expected.

England's situation is to be lamented, but we should not let lamentation interfere with our obtaining a clear view of cause and effect, nor should it conceal the lesson that lies behind the struggle. The United States as an industrial nation will be forced to follow England's steps if the voice of the "government control" artist is listened to. This great nation was founded on freedom and it will remain great only as long as freedom is its watchword.

Today we hear too frequently the cry of government control of big business. Why merely big business? Why not government control of every business? Is democracy to be abandoned?

Such a statement can easily be proved false with a little careful thought. Money to loan at five percent interest, on farms only. Address: W. L. Glenham, Cedarville, O.

21 GRADUATES LEAVE LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL

The Cedarville Township High School commencement was held in the opera house, Thursday evening before a crowded house. The stage had been decorated with the class colors and spring flowers. On the platform were the members of the faculty and the members of the Board of Education, Supt. C. E. Oxley, County Supt. A. C. Aylman, Dr. W. R. McChesney and Rev. W. P. Harriman. Dr. Homer B. Henderson was the speaker of the evening. The invocation was given by Dr. McChesney and the benediction by Rev. Harriman.

The commencement address was delivered by Dr. Homer B. Henderson, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church, Grove City, Pa. He spoke from the subject, "Where Are You Going?" In the address which was inspiring and instructive, the speaker said: "The age of youth is peculiar. No other is like it. We do things then we would not think of doing later. We are a bit reckless. We are indifferent to the things that older folks think are of supreme importance. Nor are we burdened with courtesy. We used to talk of callow youth. Today we talk of flaming youth.

"But life is a journey and whether old or young we are taking it. We have a starting point, that is heredity, a most vital factor. And since we are to plan for the coming generations. There are experiences by the way. This is environment—the twin sister of heredity. The folks we meet, the friends we make, the books we read, and the scenery we view, and a thousand other influences enter in.

"Environment can not be ignored. We have our baggage. Our education, our intelligence, our common sense. And then perhaps the greatest—the proper appraisal of life. And the journey ends of course with the destination. And that destination determines our aim, our goal, our will, our desire, our vision, our hope.

"To a great extent what we decide we will do, will decide whether we arrive or not. Our will is a strong force. It is said that 'a man's will is the intelligent set of his personality toward a goal.' The great men who have arrived have had great aims backed by great wills.

Following the address the diplomas were presented by Prof. Oxley. The music for the evening was furnished by the Methodist Sunday School orchestra.

REV. W. P. HARRIMAN

Rev. W. P. Harriman will have distinction of being the last minister to serve the members of the Reformed Presbyterian church in this place. He will also be the first minister of the new Presbyterian congregation that will come into existence following the action of Dayton Presbytery.

HISTORY OF DAUGHERTY AND HIS INDICTMENT

Few there are that are familiar with the events that led up to the indictment of Harry M. Daugherty, former Attorney General, who was asked to leave the Cabinet by President Coolidge.

With Daugherty, former Alien Property Custodian, T. W. Miller, Delaware, political associate of Harry, and John T. King of Connecticut. The latter died a few days ago following a breakdown and pneumonia.

1917—The Alien Property Custodian takes over 49 per cent of the American Metal Co. stock owned by Germans.

1918—The Alien Property Custodian sells this stock for $6,000,000, which is invested in Liberty bonds and the accumulated interest grows to about $7,000,000.

1921—T. W. Miller named Alien Property Custodian.

April-May 1921—Richard Merton, one of the original German owners in New York makes effort to reveal the real owner of this stock was a Swiss corporation.

Federal Grand Jury investigation reveals the following events:

July, 1921—Merton pays John T. King, $50,000. If is further agreed that John T. King, for helping defraud the Government of the $7,400,000, "should in his own behalf and in behalf of all the other conspirators receive from said Richard Merton for distribution among said conspirators the Liberty bonds to the value of $391,000."

August, 1921—King pays Jess Smith half of the $50,000.

Sept. 21—Alien Property Custodian Miller, "without reference to the legality or merits of said claims and without examining the records and papers on file," signs two letters recommending that Attorney General Daugherty allow the claim of the Swiss Co. to the $7,400,000.

Sept. 23, 1921—Daugherty "without making an honest, impartial and intelligent decision," and "influenced solely by the hope and reward of personal gain," orders payment of the claim.

October 1, 1921—Merton pays John T. King, Jess Smith and Miller, $391,000.

In addition to these allegations, two other facts stand out. One is the destruction of Mel Daugherty's bank record showing transactions by the Daughertys and Jess Smith. The other is the refusal of Harry Daugherty to testify last January before the Federal Grand Jury.

The class colors were Yellow and White; the class flower, Yellow Rose and the motto: "I will keep faith." The class roll is as follows: George Alfred Townsley, Mary Amelia Peters, Robert Milton Bratton, James Robert Collins, Robert Lee Moore, Charles Victor Kyle, Lawrence J. Waddle, James Cresswell Stormont, Robert Dallas Marshall, Martha Jean Morton, Mary Christine Smith, Gladys Irene Beatty, Lillian Mae Ford, Janet Stover Huff, Annis Campbell Huff, Helen Grizzella Finney, Florence Jane Paxson, Edith Ina Harbison, Margaret Josephine Auld, Frances McChesney, Albert Vernon Wigal.

MANY CALLED ON TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS

There is much comment locally this week on the enforcement of the new traffic ordinance. The ordinance has been in effect for some time and local people have been aware that such an ordinance was in existence. The ordinance in the main is the same as in force in Xenia.

The enforcement of any law always brings up questions, particularly the policy under which it is enforced. In this day of the way-side justice court the motorist has been easy prey for fees, the arrest being made at a point where the motorist could offer no defense. This has resulted in a widespread campaign against the justice court, which is looked upon as a fee collecting agency more than the arm of the law enforcement branch of the government.

The average motorist, whether from the rural district, village or city when driving into Springfield or Dayton, knows full well that certain rules regarding traffic must be observed. A violation means a fine. The city driver frequently forgets these requirements while in smaller places and proceeds to drive thru at break-neck speed.

There can be no honest objection to the enforcement of any law when it is required in the proper form. The village or city has all the power on its side when the question of rights are raised. The motorist in most every instance knows this but he objects to arrest on technical grounds. It is true that traffic rules differ in most places but the "stop street" rule is a common one most everywhere. It was for not stopping upon entering Main street from Xenia avenue that most complaints originated this week. The Greene County Automobile Club last Friday placed signs on Xenia avenue as a warning to motorists approaching Main street.

It is unfortunate for all that that these signs were not larger and that they were not placed in a more prominent place that motorists, particularly the out-of-town motorist, could be seen.

row lines that the town will be given a bad name in the surrounding community or over the state.

We believe that the Automobile Club and village council should make immediate changes in the present signs and provide larger ones and have them placed where they will not be obscured by poles or parked vehicles or motor cars.

The Main and Xenia avenue crossing is a dangerous one at best owing to the peculiar angle in the street. Within the past few months some narrow escapes from accidents have taken place all because motorists have not observed the "stop street" rule. The general public is entitled to protection and can demand it under the law. The passing motorist on Main street is also given protection under the law and for this reason the motorist on Xenia avenue must check his speed before entering Main street.

Another point has been raised about the location of the street signs and that is that neither of the Xenia avenue signs can be seen at night. The painted sign on the brick wall can not be a warning to motorists always because it is usually covered with dust or mud from Xenia avenue.

We do not believe local citizens want it said that the town is taking undue advantage of motorists. The traffic law in itself is all right and nothing more than in force in most places. But we are, certain that motorists should have a better system of warning than has been provided here at this time.

The Misses Fannie and Margaret McNeill were called to Belle Center this week by the sudden death of their brother, Mr. David McNeill, who had not been in good health for some time.

The fact that Daugherty is now in Fayette county may have some bearing why the (Sen?) is making so many trips to the Fayette county capital.

TO UNDO THE MISCHIEF

The hold the telephone trust has on Ohio has caused the public to become much interested than is usual. The attempt to push up rates in the face of present big returns because the trust has succeeded in getting control of Ohio's rate making board, does not strike public fancy at this time.

After so long a time with the press of the state hammering at present conditions, Attorney General Crabbe, announces that he has been investigating and may yet bring a suit against the Bell Telephone Co. Michigan has started such action and Detroit has been conducting a fight to reduce the present rates. Profits to the trust are by far the largest in the history of the company and do not warrant increased rates now. The fact that the parent company, The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, New York, that owns the Ohio Bell Company, has by its method of business been keeping the Ohio company poor by draining profits and has given the public insight to the kind of business the Bell Company has been doing.

The parent company, as well as the Ohio company has been spending enormous amounts of money to nominate and elect state senators in Ohio that will guard the Ohio Public Utility Commission, that makes the rates.

There is no just complaint to be made against the independent telephone companies in Ohio. The Bell interests by controlling the Ohio rate making board are providing hard sledding for the small companies. To starve them out, put their property on the market or be purchased at any kind of a price offered.

The Ohio Telephone News, a publication for independent telephone companies, in the April issue, carries the report of Frank A. Knapp, retiring president of that association and it is extremely interesting.

Mr. Knapp says: "It is not too early at this time, in advance of the primaries and the election, to ask you to use your best efforts to prevent radical politicians from obtaining public office. Unless I am badly mistaken the next legislature will witness the introduction of a considerable number of misbegotten anti-utility measures designed to capitalize whatever sentiment there may exist in opposition to the utilities companies."

The Cincinnati Enquirer some days ago published a statement that the impression has gone forth that the Ohio Bell crowd were interested in a legislative program and were out seeing to it that the right sort were up in front in the running.

Mr. Knapp very frankly says that "The independent telephone companies are not trying to put anything over. They are willing that every citizen shall know all of the facts about their aims and operations. They are willing to go farther in making public the details of their intimate policies and affairs than any other business or business men. They ask only fair treatment and the right to a respectable existence."

"The Week", Columbus, in commenting on the friendly candidates for the part the Bell company was taking in selecting friendly candidates for the Ohio legislature says: "Does not Mr. Knapp know that certain conditions he complains of herein might have been corrected had the Ohio Bell and the A. T. & T. lobbyists stayed away from Columbus? That the telephone crowd broke faith with other utilities, with whom they enjoy friendly business relations, is no secret."

"Of this fact there can be little chance for dispute, and this is, unless the people of Ohio succeed in breaking the stranglehold of the Ohio Bell Company or rather that which its owner in fee simple, the A. T. & T., now has on them, utilities generally are in for a razzing that will not only prove unfortunate but unfair. Hence, any hints at or a showing of utility activities in landing legislative candidates can but prove mighty bad business."

In view of the fact that Xenia patrons are facing another increase of $3.00 a year for the Bell phone, this information will be timely in this county. The Bell patrons in the county will attribute this $3 per year is no secret if the Utility Commission is not headed off. The entire state has been demanding a new deal from this board not only from telephone patrons but from gas consumers.

Greene County figures in this rate question more than the average phone patron imagines. Sen. ("") L. T. Marshall was a member of the Utility in the last session of the Senate that voted to reject new appointments and thus continue the old or present board for the financial profit of the companies. These companies maintain an expensive lobby in Columbus. Marshall is a political associate of D. Pemberton, former Union lobbyist, who now lives about the state house. Also Cery Blue, lobbyist for the telephone trust, and Frank Muller, Chillicothe, a member of the Utility Board. It was Pemberton that handled Marshall's campaign two years ago. Marshall will be a candidate again for a second term.

Every Xenian then that voted for Marshall two years ago, and is now a phone patron, will have the feeling and privilege of paying $3 more a year. The telephone trust provides the candidate and the patrons get to pay $3 a year more for the use of the trust telephones. Xenia has no reason to oppose the telephone company on the rate question, when she casts her vote for the telephone candidate for state senator.

Bethune, Senator Marshall from political power and Xenians will be saving something for themselves and aiding other towns and cities over the state. Marshall's record in the Senate is in black and white and can be had from the Clerk of the Ohio Senate.

Attorney General Crabbe is now asked to bring suit to revoke the charter of the company and undo what the Ohio Senate, and the lobby element did at the last session.

Home Insurance Company of New York,

Largest American Fire Ins. Co.

For THIRTY YEARS, I have represented THE HOME in Cedarville Community. Its FIRE, LIGHTNING AND TONADO POLICIES are owned by hundreds of our citizens and many thousands of dollars have been paid to our policy holders here.

The Home Life Ins. Co.

merits your attention, because in the Insurance Investigation in New York in 1905 it was found "clean as a hound's tooth".

It received public endorsement, evidenced by the fact that it was the only New York Company that made a gain in Insurance in force in the year following the New York Insurance Investigation.

Its management has been so just and treatment of policyholders so fair that I must admit that I am prejudiced in its favor. Its FORTY-NINE MILLION DOLLARS of Assets securely invested guarantees its policies. It has been called

"The Roll of Honor Co."

THE HOME LIFE OF NEW YORK, writes

Ordinary Life Policies, Limited Payment Policies, Endowment Policies, Monthly Income Policies, Old Age Income Policies, Single Premium Policies, Joint Life Policies, Disability Benefit Policies, Monthly term Policies, Convertible term Policies, Children's Endowment Policies, Life Annuity Policies, LIBERTY POLICY

Our Liberty Policy at a very low premium first three years and regular rates thereafter, will surprise you. DON'T INSURE YOUR LIFE with out first talking it over with, or writing to

W. L. CLEMANS,

Suppose you become totally disabled from disease or accident would it not be agreeable to you for a strong INSURANCE COMPANY to send you a check for $100 — every thirty days until you regain strength enough to go to work again even if such disability should continue for years and to pay you $200 per month while confined in a hospital?

Or suppose your disability is only partial and you receive a check for $40 per month for several months, while you are able to do part of your work.

I write this kind of insurance for the largest company of its kind in the world.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. St. John have gone to Detroit, to spend a week with relatives in that city.

There will be some excellent talent in "Icebound," the Senior class play to be given at the opera house, June 1st.

Master Paul Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Reed, sustained a broken right arm yesterday while at play on the school grounds.

The neighbors of Mr. James StJohn with five tractors and two teams put out his corn crop for him Monday. Mr. St. John sustained a sprained ankle some months ago and has been unable to put out his crop. The assistance of these neighbors has been greatly appreciated by Mr. St. John.

thought. Picture if you can this country, without the Standard Oil and its subsidies, without the U. S. Steel Corporation, General Motors, and the countless other great corporations that form the very heart of our industrial life. Fifty years ago there was no "big business". Are we in a worse condition today than then? The answer is obvious. Let us remember that the United States is a free country where brains and genius may reap their just reward. Intolerance of anything without due consideration is dangerous. England has learned her lesson, let the United States profit by her experience.

Wind Power Impractical

Electrical energy has been obtained from wind-driven turbines in windmills, but the harnessing of power in this way is not done commercially to any extent. The difficulties to be overcome are the variable output and variable direction of wind and the comparatively low concentration of available power.

There is a demure prettiness about printed challis that suits it exactly to frocks for little girls. Blue bells on an ivory ground invite bandings of narrow blue and canary ribbons to lead the ruffles on this pretty frock.

Capes Lend Grace

The graceful cape finds many a place for itself in spring fashions, both on coats and frocks. Sometimes it is a mere hint of a cape, but again, it appears in all its debonaire glory—as in the handsome coat shown here. This model of plain cloth, will commend itself for all-around wear.
